Smart Schools From Training Memories to Educating Minds

BILL TAYLOR, stalwart BL volunteer and curator at large presents a remounting of his wildly successful and truly astounding rare collection of oddities from a long history of anti-gay educational films first presented in classes and on television. State agents, as much as those dedicated to a state in the making, have an evident interest in legitimating narratives; very often that is what they mean by "collective memory" - stories that polish the cultural credentials of their claim to power.
